

WOMAN SHOTS SHOOTER'S COER

Pretty Laura Vendover Puts Bullet Through Private Paul
Shaunty's Heart.

MOTIVE, ILL-TREATMENT BY SUPPOSED HUSBAND

Alleged Murderess Bound Over to U. S. District Court to Await Grand Jury Action.

Shooting Private Paul P. Shaunty, her supposed husband, through the heart as he was leaving the kitchen of Captain William Ulline's quarters at Fort Douglas, Laura Vendover, hysterically sobbed, "I guess that ends it, but he drove me to it by his incessant ill-treatment," as she handed the smoking revolver to Lieutenant K. S. Shaw, who had rushed to the scene, a few minutes after 11 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The woman was immediately placed under arrest and the federal authorities were notified of the killing. The body of Shaunty was taken to the hospital quarters a few minutes later.

Captain Ulline went to his quarters immediately after the shooting and asked the young woman what had happened to cause the tragedy. Evidently and in an almost incoherent manner, the girl's story of how the man had wronged her and of his constant ill-treatment was told to her horrified listeners who, until that time, had believed that the girl and Shaunty were man and wife. Provoked beyond endurance by his refusal to marry her, after he had written to her telling her that he was married to her and that they were living happily, and could not be separated by his military duties, she said that she had shot him as he was about to leave the kitchen.

Absent Without Leave.
Shaunty, who was a member of the hospital corps, had returned to the fort Tuesday night, after he had been absent without leave for thirty-six hours. He went to the hospital Wednesday morning, where he was immediately placed under arrest. When placed under arrest he was severely reprimanded for his absence, after which he evaded his guard and went to his room in the servants' quarters, situated in the rear of Captain Ulline's quarters. While there he met Private Hartman of the band and said: "Don't tell Laura that I am here. He was dressed in his uniform and, going to his room, he changed his uniform for civilian dress. Whether Shaunty intended to leave the fort for the city is not known definitely.

His supposed wife, who was employed as a servant by Captain Ulline, was seen working about the house just prior to the shooting. It is supposed that she went to her room, where the altercation must have started, for she said that she shot him as he was leaving the kitchen, where his body was found. The young woman discharged four shots at him, one of which passed through the left lobe of his head, whereupon he must have turned to run. For the two following shots, which were the cause of his death, entered his back one just under the left shoulder blade and the other about six inches lower. His death was almost instantaneous.

Supposed Were Married.
Captain Ulline, in speaking of the affair Wednesday afternoon, stated that Shaunty had given the young woman a great deal of protection in an endeavor to make her temper. Captain Ulline said that he had had circumstances brought to his attention which led him to believe that the lives of the two persons were in jeopardy. He stated that he had always supposed that they were married and had never had any reason to believe anything different.

Several of the soldiers saw Shaunty and his supposed wife returning to the fort Tuesday night on the car and noticed that they were engaged in an earnest conversation. Edward McLaughlin, "striker" at the quarters of Lieutenant Snow, whose quarters are next to those of Captain Ulline, said that he saw the young woman on the front porch of Captain Ulline's house a short time before the shooting. McLaughlin noticed a black spot under her chin and paid attention to it. Speaking of the mark, she said:

"My face will be a whole lot blacker before this day is over. I have attributed the mark to a beating given her by Shaunty Tuesday night. That Shaunty has not borne the best of reputations as a man is evidenced by the fact that he had just completed the serving of a sentence of twenty days for being absent without leave and for drunkenness."

Native of Kentucky.
Shaunty entered the hospital corps of the army five years ago and gave his home as Springfield, Ky. He enlisted at Columbus, O., two years ago and was transferred to Fort Douglas immediately after. His parents at Springfield have been informed of his death and asked as to whether the body shall be shipped there. In case they wish to bury Shaunty here, he will be buried at Fort Douglas with military honors this (Thursday) or Friday afternoon.

Captain Ulline gave to the complaint charging Mrs. Vendover with murder in the first degree Wednesday afternoon. The young woman was arraigned before United States Commissioner Charles Baldwin and waived preliminary hearing, after which she was bound over to the district court to await the action of the grand jury. Upon the advice of her lawyers, she positively refused to make any statement regarding the case. She was later removed to the county jail by United States Deputy Marshal Lucien Smyth.

BIDS FOR CONCESSIONS TO BE OPENED FRIDAY

The board of park commissioners held a meeting Wednesday afternoon in the city recorder's office but transacted very little business. Bids for the concessions at Liberty park were to have been opened at 2 o'clock, but the board postponed the matter until Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at a meeting to be held in the office of Helen M. Wells.

The commission instructed the clerk to send a communication to the city council inquiring as to why the council had failed to confirm its appointment of Nicholas Bywater as superintendent of parks. The appointment was sent to the council several weeks ago, but as yet no action has been taken on it.

After the meeting next Friday the commission will visit Pioneer park in company with the superintendent of parks and the city engineer and look over the location for a public playground in that park. It will then make an estimate of the cost of improvements necessary to perfect the playground and report to the council.

POSSIBLE MURDER ALLEGED BY POLICE

Woods's Alleged Enticement of Little Beck Girl From Home
Infuriates Citizens.

MAN IS CAPTURED ONLY AFTER A FURIOUS CHASE

At Police Station Denies the Charges and Says He Ran Because of Woman's Screams.

Charged with enticing the six-year-old daughter of Mrs. J. Beck from her home at 221 Sixth East street, with a sinister purpose in view, Anthony Woods, a cement contractor, 29 years old, was arrested by Patrolman Anthony Olson, Patrol Driver George Moore and Motorcyclist Officer W. W. Griffin, Wednesday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock, and saved from a possible lynching at the hands of infuriated citizens on P street, between Third and Fourth avenues.

According to the reports received by the police, Woods went to the home of the child Wednesday, about noon, and, after giving her a bag of candy, enticed her to accompany him to the eastern part of the city before the child was missed by the anxious mother, Mrs. J. Kingdon, an aunt of the child, saw the two passing her house at Seventh East and Fourth South streets, on their way eastward, and ran after the man.

Child's Aunt to the Rescue.
Mrs. Kingdon immediately attacked Woods, who started to run. The chase of Woods was taken up by W. H. Noland of 373 Eighth avenue, who took Mrs. Kingdon into his buggy and drove after Woods, who was running toward the east, and, putting across the country, Woods was detaining his pursuers, when J. E. Burdick of 101 East 10th South, and D. A. Mowson, who lives on Fourth South and Third East streets, and a number of others from the immediate neighborhood, arrived on the scene.

The alarm had been sent to the police station along the way of the chase, and when Woods neared P street, between Third and Fourth avenues, the police patrol and Patrolman Olson arrived in time to save Woods from being taken overboard by the maddened crowd. Threats of lynching were heard on all sides, but the man was removed to the city jail without further difficulty.

Denies Charges.
Woods, at the station, denied the charges and said that he had first become acquainted with the child when he had been doing cement work in the vicinity of her home. He denied buying the child the candy, and said that the younger girl followed him at her passing, and that the attack of Mrs. Kingdon and her screams would make any man run.

Woods further denied the charge that the attack of Mrs. Kingdon and her screams would make any man run. He said that he was running because of the woman's screams.

"I want to go home and go to bed," cried a diminutive maiden of 2 years to her mother, who was about 10:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

The little girl had become separated from her elders and had occasioned considerable concern to the crowd on Second street. A friendly man took the matter in hand and tried to ascertain her name, but all that could be gleaned was that she knew where she lived and her name was Anne Nettie Penfold or Patterson. It could not be determined which.

A big policeman wanted to take her home, but she cried and refused to go with him, clinging to the stranger and asking him to take her home, which he promised to do. The crowd then started down State street to Fourth South, where she said she lived. The man promised to take her to the station in case he could not deliver her to her parents.

SALOONMAN ARRESTED AT NATIONAL CAPITAL

The Charge Against Him Is Selling Liquor to an Indian.

Chief Special Officer William E. Johnson, head of the United States commission for the suppression of liquor selling among Indians, with headquarters in Salt Lake City, has just returned from a trip to Washington, D. C. While at the national capital Mr. Johnson created somewhat of a sensation there by placing under arrest a saloonman for selling liquor to an Indian.

The Indian, Simon Hollowell, of the Omahas, went to Washington to see the Indian commission and incidentally to ride to take in the sights of the city. He went to a saloon and ran up a bill for $20, which he paid with a check for $125.00, selling the saloonman to keep the change. This he did, and when the Indian became sober the following day he found he was minus the money.

Mr. Johnson placed "Thomas E." Sullivan, the saloonkeeper, under arrest while he was trying to cash the check.

She charges him with many acts of cruelty, among which is that last June he threw a station and a pair of his old shoes at her. She also alleges that he told her and her niece to go out on the streets and enter the underworld, and that they were not fit for any place but Commercial street.

She alleges that in January of this year he tried to choke her, and on February 6 he tried to beat her. She also alleges that he has spat upon and kicked her children, and that he has been unable to stand the treatment longer, she declares, she was compelled to leave him February 10.

They were married in England, June 2, 1894, and have two children, of whom the younger, a girl, is now in the hospital. Herlby has been employed at the store of Calaway, Hoock & Francis, and has earned about $100 a month, but he has not supported his family, according to Mrs. Herlby.

OLD RAILROAD CASE BACK AT BEGINNING

Wasatch & Jordan Valley Litigation Again in United States Court.

Through his attorney, Thomas Breckon of New York, Russell Sage, Raphael of New York filed a second suit in the United States district court here Wednesday afternoon against the Wasatch & Jordan Valley Railroad company et al., to secure a foreclosure sale of certain mortgaged property of the defendant, in order that part of the money derived therefrom may be used to pay him the value of and interest on $55 bonds of the defendant company valued at $100.

A similar suit was filed in the local United States district court January 1, 1903, nine years ago. This case, however, was dismissed and appeal was made to the circuit court of appeals, which tribunal affirmed the action of the lower court. Later a suit was filed in the New York court and again brought into the local district court, but was finally dismissed, after the plaintiff's attorney had endeavored to seize certain railroad property in the southern part of the state.

The filing of the new complaint means starting all over again, and the case will be tried in the circuit court of appeals. It is alleged in the complaint that the defendant company failed to comply with the conditions of certain bonds issued to mortgage its property, and Raphael asks that the mortgaged property be sold and the money derived be disposed of in accordance with the contract, and that he be paid, and then what he alleges to be his share on the bonds he holds.

WIFE PROVES CHARGES AGAINST HER HUSBAND
Judge Morse of the district court on Wednesday granted a decree of separate maintenance in favor of Marie McCarrroll and against Robert McCarrroll on the ground of desertion and failure to support. They were married in this city on March 4, 1908, and Mrs. McCarrroll told the court that her husband had been using all of his money for liquor and had not supported her at all, and had finally deserted her. She declared that he had abandoned her and that she had been dependent upon her own efforts for her support, although her husband is a carpenter and earns good wages.

McCarrroll contested the case and denied that he drank to excess or that he had failed to support his wife. He said that he had always supported her and that she had abandoned him and taken up with a man named John. He also charged his wife with using vile and profane language towards him.

Judge Morse decreed and allowed her $10 a month as separate maintenance and $75 as attorney's fees. She was also given the household furniture.

SUMMER'S PURE FOOD WORK OBTAINED

Dealers in Syrups and Other
Flavors Must Designate
Whether They Are Real.

SALE OF SHORT WEIGHT FLOUR MUST BE STOPPED

Short Weight in Butter Accidental, and No Prosecutions
Will Be Instituted.

The monthly meeting of the state pure food bureau was held at the office of Willard Hansen, state food and dairy commissioner, in the Duoly block Wednesday afternoon. All the members of the bureau were present. Considerable business was acted upon, and plans outlined for an active pure food campaign for the coming summer.

The resignation of Simon Hanson as deputy state food and dairy commissioner was accepted, and J. E. Johnson of this city was appointed to succeed him. Mr. Hanson's resignation was in accordance with the provisions of the law, which requires the resignation of a deputy commissioner at some length the rulings relative to extracts, and it was thought advisable to include the various flavor syrups served in ice cream sodas at soda fountains under these laws.

Must Label Flavors.
That is, the bureau was in favor of requiring the druggists, in connection with the various flavoring syrups were real or imitation, in order that the public might know just what it is drinking. It was also thought best that druggists should designate whether or not the various flavoring syrups were real or imitation, in order that the public might know just what it is drinking.

According to Mr. Hansen, there has been flour shipped into Salt Lake which is improperly labeled as to weight. The bureau intends to enforce rigidly the laws regarding the weight of flour, and if violations of this nature continue, prosecutions will result. The bureau will try a test case of this kind the first chance it gets.

Several firms appeared before the bureau on Wednesday to be prosecuted for violations of the food laws. Several weeks ago the department seized some ice cream cones at the Sweet Candy company that were found to contain alcohol. However, it was shown that while the one side of the machine cut slightly under weight, the other side cut that much over weight, and some of the over-weight butter was also found. As this was in violation of the law, the bureau took no action.

It was announced at the meeting that on April 11 and 12 a meeting of the pure food officials of the various western states will be held at Boise, Ida. For the purpose of discussing the laws regarding pure food. It is desirable to do this in order that when dealers ship articles under the laws of one state they shall not conflict with the laws of another, as they do in some cases at the present. It is hoped that the members of the local state pure food bureau will attend this meeting.
